Marketing objectives & strategy

1.3.3.1 Marketing mix and strategy · Unit 1 · Mr. Akram — Akademy

Marketing strategy for different markets

- Mass market (Coca-Cola) — broad appeal, competitive pricing, wide distribution, mass advertising.
- Niche market (left-handed shop) — specialist product, premium price, targeted promotion.
- B2B — selling to other firms; relationship selling, negotiated prices, trade channels.
- B2C — selling to consumers; branding, retail/online channels, mass promotion.

Product life cycle

Stages: development → introduction → growth → maturity → decline, each needing a different marketing mix. Extension strategies prolong maturity by tweaking product, promotion, price or place (e.g. Motiongate adding rides/events). PLC length varies — short for smartphones, long for Heinz Baked Beans.

Boston Matrix (portfolio)

- Star — high growth, high share; invest heavily.
- Cash cow — low growth, high share; harvest to fund stars.
- Question mark — high growth, low share; back or drop.
- Dog — low growth, low share; usually sold or closed.

Aim for a balanced portfolio. Limitation: it ignores profit and links between products and is only a snapshot — use with financial data and research.